CIVIC THANKSGIVING SERVICES PLANNED

PROGRAM ANNOUNCED FOR THE MEETING AT COLUMBUS ST. CHURCH THANKSGIVING.

Christian people in Waco will join forces Thanksgiving Day for a civic Thanksgiving in recognition of the divine blessings which have been showered upon this section during the last twelve months.

The services will be held in the Columbus Street Baptist church. Senator A. R. McCollum will preside at the meeting, while ministers of the various churches will make addresses or offer prayer; choirs from all the congregations will sing religious and patriotic songs. It will be a general Thanksgiving—one in which an entire and grateful city will participate.

According to the program as arranged at a meeting held yesterday, the opening prayer will be made by Rev. W. P. Witsell, pastor of St. Paul's Episcopal church. The associated choirs, directed by Mrs. D. J. Byars, will follow with a hymn. Following the opening song service, Rev. Dr. F. N. Calvin, pastor of the Central Christian church, will read the Scripture lesson. An anthem by the choirs will follow. Rev. J. M. Dawson, pastor of the First Baptist church, will deliver an address upon "Things for Which We Can Be Thankful." The next number will be special music. Dr. L. Warsaw, pastor of Temple Methodist church, will speak upon "How We Can Express Our Gratitude." The choirs and congregations will then sing "America." The benediction will be said by Rev. Dr. E. E. Ingram, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church.

An effort will be made to make the service one of not only great attendance, but of actual civic uplift and genuine Thanksgiving. The program was carefully arranged and will be one of the best ever given in the city.

NO CLUE TO IDENTITY MAN KILLED BY AUTO

AGED MAN STRUCK AT EIGHTH AND WEBSTER DIES WITHOUT BEING CONSCIOUS.

Body Will Be Held at John Fall Undertaking Parlor Pending Identification—Police Investigating.

An unidentified man, probably 65 years old, was struck by an automobile about 8 o'clock last night while crossing the street at Eighth and Webster and sustained injuries from which he died at 1:40 this morning. He never regained consciousness. The body is being held at the L. C. Puckett Undertaking parlors.

H. C. Dunn, residing at 1509 North Eleventh street and driving a livery car owned by A. J. Matthews, also of 1509 North Eleventh street, voluntarily appeared at the police station immediately following the accident. After a thorough investigation by police Chief Guy McNamara and Officer A. B. Brandon, Dunn was released from custody.

According to Dunn's version of the accident and several witnesses examined by the police officers, the automobile was going north on Eighth street at a rate of approximately twelve miles an hour. The automobile was just at the rear of a Cotton Palace car going at about the same speed and in the same direction. The man, it is stated, had crossed from the south and immediately in front of the street car. As he passed over the tracks, he failed to observe the automobile, then within thirty or forty feet, and when, though he applied the emergency brakes, was unable to stop until he had struck the old man. When the car did stop, the front left wheel had pinned its victim to the pavement and the car had rolled backward to remove the body to the curb.

The police station was notified of the accident, and Officers Brandon and Roy German responded with the patrol and removed the injured man to the Providence sanitarium. Dr. H. R. Dudgeon, who made the examination, found a fracture of the skull at the base of the brain, two broken ribs, serious internal injuries and several bruises about the body. The doctor stated immediately upon examination that there was no chance of recovery.

It may be several days before his correct identity is known. There were no letters, clothes, marks or papers of any kind upon him that gave the slightest suggestion as to his identity or his home. Aside from two purses, containing $35.80, nothing was found in his pockets.

During his deliriums he muttered words which sounded to the examining physician and the attending nurses like "Sam Russell." Other mutterings sounded like he had said "South Seventh street." Officers were assigned to canvass South Seventh street, but were unable to locate any one by that name.

The city directory does not contain a Sam Russell, nor any family of that name. Telephone calls to Russell families having telephones were equally unsuccessful in establishing his identity. The hotels also failed to reveal any one of that name. Police Chief McNamara stated last night that a more thorough effort would be made to establish his identity.

The injured man had every appearance of being ordinarily well-to-do. His clothes were comparatively new and of good fabric. He is slightly bald, with a gray mustache and a small gray beard. He is about 5 feet 10 inches in height and weighs perhaps 140 or 150 pounds. At the time of the accident, he probably was en route to the Cotton Palace.

SOCIALISTS RAP WILSON AND DEMOCRATIC PARTY

STATE CONVENTION DEFINES ANTI-LIQUOR PLANK IN PLATFORM.

Platform Also Indorses Land League, of Which Texas Body Will Begin Holding Sessions Today.

Before final adjournment yesterday afternoon, the annual convention of Texas socialists took a lusty slap at the state controlled liquor traffic, criticized President Wilson's proposed policy for an increased navy and army, denounced the democratic party in Texas as incompetent, and declared for a referendum election to raise funds to oppose the poll tax law. Also platform planks were inserted endorsing the Land League of America and urging all members to forget their differences and all socialists to join. The committee report of propaganda and literature also was adopted.

According to individual explanations, the socialist anti-liquor plank is not prohibition in its intent, only so far as it affects states. The resolution favors the regulation of saloons by the federal government with the consent of the communities affected. The "anti-preparedness" plank was largely in the nature of an attack upon Wilson and "emphatically opposes any attempt on the part of the ruling classes to transplant militarism in this country under the guise of preparedness at the best of the munitions trust."

Delegates selected in various sections of the state by locals of the Land League of Texas will convene here today in annual convention. The meeting will be held in Socialist hall, 420 1/2 Franklin street. W. S. Noble, Rockdale, is secretary. A chairman will be chosen by the delegates. Only routine matters are scheduled to receive attention.

AMERICAN EXPORT TRADE IN DANGER

NEED FOR MERCHANT MARINE IS STRESSED AT POLITICAL SCIENCE MEETING.

Senator Weeks of Massachusetts Says This Country Pays Foreigners $300,000,000 for Shipping.

By the Associated Press.

New York, Nov. 12.—Assertions that in the event of future foreign war, exportation from the United States would be virtually cease and that only the superior British and French navies enabled exportation to continue in spite of the present European conflict were made at the meeting of the Academy of Political Science tonight as arguments for the upholding of the American merchant marine.

Sensors Duncan U. Fletcher of Florida, John W. Weeks of Massachusetts, and Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma were the speakers.

Senator Weeks argued for a large merchant marine, pointing out that this country now pays to foreign owners of ships $300,000,000 annually to transport American products abroad, he asserted that the creation of a merchant marine by subsidies would increase industries in this country and give employment to probably 500,000 workmen.

In the event of a great foreign war he said an ample merchant marine would be invaluable because it would enable America to continue exporting regardless of the war, whereas now if it were not for the superior British and French navies American exportation would be stopped.

Senator Owen said he believed that congress should "establish a naval auxiliary merchant marine owner by a corporation the majority stock of which is owned by the government; that this corporation should be in charge of a shipping board; that the most modern ships should be built for this service as speedily as possible; that we should prepare to man these boats at fair competition; educate a naval reserve on them; that we should establish with these boats lines of commerce and regular sailings at fair rates between our ports and those of Mexico, Central and South America and the Orient."

Secretary McAdoo in a telegram urged that the government should provide speedily an adequate naval auxiliary in the form of a merchant marine.

"Profound economic changes will result from the world-war now ending," he said. "We must secure our economic as well as our physical safety. The utilization of a naval auxiliary merchant marine in time of peace for the expansion and protection of our foreign trade is of vital importance. The prosperity of the country depends absolutely upon the continued growth of our foreign commerce."

TEXAS FEDERATION OF CLUBS ADJOURNS

MRS. JOSEPH G. WREN OF WACO ELECTED VICE PRESIDENT OF MUSICAL SECTION.

New President of State Organization is Mrs. Fred Fleming of Dallas.

Special to the Morning News.

Brownwood, Nov. 12.—After the election of officers and an hour spent in the pleasant pastime of throwing bouquets at Brownwood and her hospitable people, the eighteenth annual convention of the Texas Federation of Women's club adjourned at 1 o'clock today sine die.

The place of meeting for next year's convention will be selected by the executive board of the federation later. Most important of the day's business was the election of officers, as follows:

President, Mrs. Fred Fleming of Dallas; vice president-at-large, Mrs. M. Hettie Curry, of Brenham; recording secretary, Mrs. A. P. Averill, of El Paso; corresponding secretary, Mrs. A. B. Griffith, of Dallas; treasurer, Mrs. S. S. Burnside, of Wichita Falls; auditor, Mrs. H. R. Scott, of Corpus Christi.

All these elections were unanimous. That of Mrs. A. B. Griffith as corresponding secretary was made by appointment by the new president, and was then unanimously ratified by the convention. The retiring president, Mrs. Henry B. Fall of Houston, tendered the gavel to Mrs. Fleming, and with the singing of "God Be With You 'Til We Meet Again," the convention was closed.

During the morning the musical clubs, which were permitted by a constitutional amendment adopted yesterday to affiliate with the Federation of Women's clubs, elected the following officers:

President, Mrs. J. P. Lyons of Fort Worth; first vice president, Mrs. Joseph G. Wren of Waco; second vice president, Miss Ima Hogg of Houston; recording secretary, Mrs. Brodie of Marlin; treasurer, Mrs. Snider of Marshall; auditor, Mrs. A. P. Baldwin of Tyler.

These officers, with the following who were elected, will compose the executive board: Mrs. Gentry Waldo of Houston, Mrs. Stephen J. Hay of Dallas, and Miss Bettie Cooper of San Angelo.

The organization of the Federation of Music clubs marks a step forward in the promotion of music in Texas and was perfected under the administration of Miss Louise Pace of Corsicana, as chairman of the music committee of the Federation of Women's clubs.

The delegates and visitors are returning to their homes all over the state and all declare that the Brownwood meeting was the most important and most pleasant ever held in the history of the Texas Federation.

No Labor Shortage on Border.

By The Associated Press.

Brownsville, Nov. 12.—The labor bureau of the United States immigration service here reports that while large numbers of Americans have returned to Mexico through this port during the past several weeks there is no indication yet of a labor shortage in this section of Texas, where Mexican labor only is employed. A canvass of farm districts by the bureau's representative found that the farmers have sufficient labor at present and more is readily had when needed. It is estimated that seven thousand Mexicans have returned to Mexico through Brownsville and sub-ports, but these were mainly refugees who collected on this side during the past three years.

ALL SOUTH BEING SHOWN VITALITAS

Earth Product of Volcanic Origin is Greatest Known Natural Tonic.

What Vitalitas is and the manner in which it is produced has been shown to hundreds of thousands of people throughout the South. Demonstrations and displays of Vitalitas lasting from a few weeks to twelve months have been continuously in progress in nearly all important cities. At these displays have been shown the crude volcanic substance and with it the process of treatment by which natural Vitalitas is extracted chemically pure. Samples have been served continuously and multitudes have been convinced of the merit of this remarkable product.

Nature has produced no tonic, so far as science knows, that is equal to Vitalitas; being free of alcohol and habit forming drugs, it leaped at once into popularity. Its wonderful responsiveness in chronic disorders as well as in the minor ailments have caused it to be adopted into homes throughout the entire south. As a corrective for indigestion, rheumatism and catarrhal affections, Vitalitas is without an equal. The aged whose systems are weakened and worn, those who are impoverished, debilitated and nervous, in all walks of life find unexpected relief in this splendid earth tonic. Cures, oftentimes classed as unbelievable, are daily credited to its use. Vitalitas is wholesome, pure, free of any harmful ingredient and is pleasant to take. Do not delay its use.

but that they are able to appreciate when educated. The Gebhard clock at the Cotton Palace, which has drawn its appreciative hundreds from the Cotton Palace visitors, has not been denied in its wonders to the half hundred children of the blind who are now at the exposition.

Yesterday Mr. Gebhard was host to a number of the children of the Blind Institute, and after his lecture explaining the marvelous features of the great timepiece, they were allowed to walk around and feel it. They expressed themselves as enjoying the "sight" very much and seemed greatly interested in mechanism and history of the clock.

After returning to the booth, Willie Gill, one of the little girls, 3 years old, and only in the second grade, wrote the following description of the clock: "I saw a wonderful clock today. It is the largest in the world and has 15,000 different parts. It weighs 6,000 pounds. Every hand runs every half minute except the second-hand and it moves all the time. This clock tells the time of all the cities in the world. When it is 12 o'clock, the Lord blesses the twelve apostles and Judas turns his back to the Lord. It has a globe on each side representing the earth and sun. It is about ten feet high. It has three big dials on it. It took thirty years to construct it, and it was made in Germany."

THE WINTER LEAGUE IS SOON TO BE ASSEMBLED

The coming of chill November days has gathered the bunch at the corner cigar store and it begins to appear that the winter league season is on in earnest. Things have hardly yet hit their mid-season stride, which is hardly to be expected thus early. A mild rumor about a baseball peace is the best they have so far been able to offer.

When the star performers of the winter league are well warmed up, however, we will begin to be amazed and astounded with the most remarkable rumors. At about the time we are reliably told that Ty Cobb is going into grand opera we will hear that Connie Mack has signed Vernon Castle and Charlie Chaplin. The news that Harry Thaw is looking over the National league with a view to a possible purchase will interest many, as will also the report—when it is made—that Mrs. Galt may manage the Boston Red Sox. For all such pleasant bits of enlightening the sport page we may feel grateful to the activities of the winter league.

The proper management of any big league ball club, the treatment of stubborn and quarrelsome ball players, how Hans Wagner should be taught to stand at bat—all these things will be taken up by the winter league and given proper consideration. It is carefully estimated that the force of thought and reflection brought to bear upon such matters through the season of the winter league would, if properly directed, bring about peace in Europe or conduct the affairs of the nation through the most tranquil channels. But the winter league has scarcely time for such trivialities and must give all its attention to baseball and what concerns it.

Waco High School
Tennis Team Plays
Against West Today

High school students will have full sway on the Cotton Palace athletic field this morning for the Waco and West High school teams will play at 11 o'clock on a court, to be laid out in front of the grand stand. A special car will bring the players and rooters from West and efforts are being made to get out a large crowd from the local high school.

This is proving one of the most successful seasons for the tennis club of the Waco High school and the Waco representatives today, Chalmers Hubby and Charles Brazelton, are said to be better than many college players. Under the direction of E. R. Alexander, a number of good tennis players have also been developed in the West High school, and, although the names of the representatives were not available last night, some close contests are expected.

Automobiles and Passenger Trains.

There is more or less speculation as to the effect the automobile has had toward reducing the local passenger business of railroads. Unquestionably, passenger earnings of the roads have been cut to some extent by the general use of motor cars, and the automobile must be recognized in some degree as a competitor of the railroad as a carrier. However, there is one respect in which the railroads have all the best of the competition. The passenger who consults "safety first" will stick to the railroads. Figures are not available now as to the number of fatal automobile accidents, the country over, during the present year, but an idea may be gained as to their number from the fact that there were more than 300 fatal automobile accidents in two of the great cities of United States during the first nine months of 1915. Contrast this record with that of some of the railroads, the Missouri, Kansas and Texas, for instance. The Katy, operating almost 4,000 miles of railroad, has gone more than two years without killing a passenger. Indeed, until a few years ago, the Katy enjoyed the wonderful record of never having had a passenger fatally injured in a train accident, and as the record stands now, the road has had only four fatal accidents to passengers in train accidents, in its history. When the thousands of passengers handled annually by the Katy is considered the percentage of fatal accidents is negligible. Indeed, the figures indicate that Katy passenger trains are a "good bet" for the citizen seeking safety.—Katy Publicity Department.

Army and Navy Are Rounding Into Shape for Game on Turkey Day

Both the Army and Navy elevens after a disappointing start are rapidly reaching a higher standard. The Middles especially are coming fast and there's every reason to believe the West Point-Annapolis game on the Polo grounds November 27 will be just as bitterly contested as all previous Army-Navy gridiron battles.

The Cadets and Middles both lost through graduation a number of stars. The loss of Pritchard and Merrill, the wonderful forward-passing combination that defeated the sailors two years ago, was a severe blow to the Cadets. The new material was promising, but very green, and coaches were undecided for some time about making varsity selections.

It was the uncertainty of coaches and the slow development of the eleven that was mainly responsible for Colgate's victory over West Point. The same trouble prevented the Middles from winning a game early in the season.

The Army coaches have practically solved their problem by playing Oliphant, a former Purdue star, at quarterback. This husky westerner was only a substitute last season. With so many vacancies to fill this year, Oliphant was given his opportunity, first at one of the end positions. After a few trials he was shifted to quarter, where he is considered a fixture. Oliphant, very fast for one so stockily built, is a first-rate open field runner and a good line plunger. His unusual kicking ability will prove to be a West Point asset.

PARIS IN GRIP OF "SOUS FAMINE"

Unprecedented Demand for Coppers Due to Trade.

The "sou crisis"—sou is the generic term for copper coinage—has roused considerable excitement, and the Paris press is devoting columns to the subject. For the last few months the scarcity of small change has been gradually increasing, and it is now culminating in a positive famine. All the big shops are forced to give stamps in change, replying to the complaints: "You can pay with them for what you buy next." Scuffles have occurred on subway trains and in street cars owing to the refusal of conductors to take anything but the exact fare. The railway stations are placarded with notices: "Have the exact sum ready; no change given." The leading shops are forced to buy coppers at a premium—fines have been inflicted in provincial towns on persons attempting similar transactions—yet the mint authorities say that never was so large a quantity of copper coinage in circulation as today.

In the popular view German machinations are the cause. The Germans need copper. Sou is copper. Therefore the Germans seize sou. That is the inevitable conclusion. Persons are said to have been arrested on the Swiss frontier laden with sacks of sou. Twenty tons of copper coins have been discovered. It is solemnly asserted, in the hold of a ship captured in the Mediterranean on its way from Barcelona to a Levant port. It is even asserted that organized gangs of sou hunters work in the subway trains and street cars to collect the precious copper for Germany—the more plausible suggestion that such persons are acting for the big stores being indignantly dismissed.

The fact remains that sou is uncomfortable. The vast extension of petty commerce on the front, for which copper is needed in unprecedented quantities. With the British there are nearly 5,000,000 soldiers, including the subsidiary services, all constantly making small purchases and demanding a multitude of sou. The shortage thus created is naturally exploited by small speculators, who at a premium of from two to four cents on a dollar snatch a scanty living.—Paris Correspondence of New York Times.

YALE EXPECTING TO BEAT PRINCETON

WEARERS OF BLUE APPEAR CONFIDENT OF WINNING, WITH TIGERS BETTING FAVORITES.

Close to Sixty Thousand Tickets Already Sold for Contest This Afternoon.

By The Associated Press.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 12.—Yale University, on the eve of her annual football game against Princeton, is flaunting her banners of blue here tonight with the frank declaration that she expects the Eli eleven to defeat the Tigers on the morrow. Notwithstanding the disastrous preliminary season, including four defeats out of seven games played, there is an undefinable feeling that the bulldog will turn and rend Princeton despite the excellent record made by the Orange and Black this autumn.

The night-before contingent from the New Jersey university came to town prepared to offer odds in favor of their team in order to bring out a reasonable amount of blue backing. Much to their surprise their early offerings of 3 to 1 were so eagerly snapped up by the Eli sympathizers that Princeton soon shortened its odds to 2 to 1 and even at these figures they found plenty of Yale money available.

Close to 60,000 tickets have been sold for the contest. Every member of the Yale first line combination is reported to be in perfect condition for a hard struggle except Fullback Scovill, who has a broken thumb.

The Princeton squad spent the night at Hartford and will not arrive until tomorrow forenoon.

The Yale team outweighs Princeton pounds to the man and on a heavy turf this advantage would be a big factor in the line plunging attack that Princeton expects the Blue to use, once they secure the ball within striking distance of the Tigers' goal line.

The probable line-up and officials follow:

Yale—Position. Princeton.
Black.....Left guard.....Nourse
White.....Center.....Gennert
J. Sheldon.....Right guard.....Hogge
Way.....Right tackle.....Parselle
Wiedeman.....Right end.....Lamberton
Van Nostrand.....Quarterback.....Glick (C)
Wilson (C).....Left halfback.....Driggs
Eingham.....Right halfback.....Shea
Guernsey.....Fullback.....Tibbitt
Referee, Nathan A. Tufts (Brown);
umpire, E. S. Land (Navy); head linesman,
William Morrice (Pennsylvania).

Many Eastern Teams End Season Today

By The Associated Press.

New York, Nov. 12.—Another series of contests expected to make football history is scheduled for eastern gridirons tomorrow. In several cases it will be the final opportunity for competing eleven to fix their status for the season of 1915. Princeton will close its pursuit of piebald glory with the battle against Yale and Michigan in playing Pennsylvania writes "Time" after its record.

Vanderbilt-Auburn Game Comes Today

By The Associated Press.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 12.—The Vanderbilt-Auburn football contest at Birmingham will furnish the big Southern football game tomorrow. Neither team has been scored on by teams in the old Southern Intercollegiate Athletic association territory, making probable one of the hardest and closest games in the south this season.

The Georgia U.-Georgia Tech contest here also is attracting attention. Georgia was eliminated from the championship race by Auburn, while Tech is still undefeated. Should Georgia win, Tech would be out of the championship race, leaving the result of the Vanderbilt-Auburn contest to decide the premier team of the old S. I. A. A. territory.

Other games scheduled include:
Sewanee vs. Chattanooga, at Chattanooga.
Clemson vs. V. M. I. at Richmond.
Southwestern Louisiana vs. Loyola at Lafayette, La.
Louisville vs. Franklin at Louisville, Ky.
Virginia Poly vs. West Virginia at Morgantown, W. Va.
Williams and Mary vs. Randolph Macon, at Williamsburg, Va.
Virginia vs. South Carolina at Columbia, S. C.
North Carolina vs. Davidson at Winston-Salem.

Baylor Expects to Win from Sooner A. & M. Today by Using Aerial Offense

GAME AT COTTON PALACE PARK AT 3 O'CLOCK THIS AFTER-NOON SHOULD BE CLOSE AND SPECTACULAR.
MANY FORWARD PASSES EXPECTED.

Today's football game at the Cotton Palace should form a sharp contrast to that of last Saturday between Baylor and Sewanee. In the latter game while Baylor used some forward passes in the first quarter, the rain that fell from the intermission on broke up any further aerial offense and the teams were forced to straight old-time football.

Baylor's squad is speckled with criss. The list includes Isaacks, Pender and Captain Morris out of the regular line; Quarterback Stonerod, Left End Reed and numerous subs.

OKLAHOMA AGGIES ARE PICKED TO WIN

FOOTBALL EXPERTS PREDICT DE-FEAT FOR BAYLOR IN GAME
THIS AFTERNOON.

Texas Meets Alabama and Kansas,
Nebraska, for Interesting Contests in Southwest.

By The Associated Press.

Kansas City, Nov. 12.—Six interstate games in the southwest tomorrow, one of them an inter-sectional affair and the other the deciding contest in the Missouri Valley championship race, eliminated war, politics and the high cost of living from all conversations tonight.

The inter-sectional exhibit will be the meeting of the University of Texas and the University of Alabama teams at Austin. Another victory for the Southwest over the Southeast was predicted tonight, especially since Texas defeated Sewanee last week so decisively, and supporters of the Longhorns were confident that the result tomorrow would be in favor of the Texans by a margin of several touchdowns.

Two Oklahoma teams will invade foreign territory for their weekly exercise, the undefeated University team from Norman going to Fayetteville to mix with the University of Arkansas eleven, and the Oklahoma A. & M. team journeying to Waco for a try at the squad at the Baylor University. In both events the Oklahoma aggregations were picked to win in this section. The Oklahoma-Arkansas game should give a line on the annual Thanksgiving contest between Oklahoma U. and Aggies from the same state. Arkansas defeated Oklahoma A. & M. 14 to 6. Baylor has not appeared previously this season against teams from outside Texas except Sewanee, to whom she lost 16 to 3, but has proved a strong contender in the race for state honors.

The Missouri Valley conference title for 1915 hangs on the game at Lawrence, Kansas where the conference teams, Kansas in the last hurdle of the Cornhuskers to another championship. Nebraska has not been defeated so far and in addition to victories over conference teams has downed the powerful Notre Dame eleven. Kansas has only one defeat on her record, the Oklahoma game, but not won from Nebraska since 1909 but much optimism was expressed in Lawrence tonight and the team was pronounced in perfect condition.

Tomorrow's games and the scores of last year's contests where the same teams played:

Alabama at Texas; did not play.

Oklahoma at Arkansas, 35 to 7.

Oklahoma A. & M. at Baylor, 69 to 0.

Nebraska at Kansas, 35 to 0.

Drake at Missouri, 8 to 22.

Notre Dame at Creighton, did not play.

Washington at St. Louis, 6 to 0.

Ames at Iowa, 6 to 26.

Southwestern at University, at Daniel Baker; did not play.

TO SETTLE COLORADO TITLE.

By The Associated Press.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 12.—Eleven of Colorado College and the Colorado School of Agriculture, the two most powerful teams in the Rocky Mountain conference, will battle at Colorado Springs tomorrow for honors that are expected to settle the Colorado championship. The only other conference game scheduled is the Colorado University-Colorado Mines game at Denver.

Black Squaw Sets Track Record of 2:11 1-4 in Pacing
Event, but Loses to The Limited in Two Heats—Tobe
Woods Makes It Three Straight in Free-for-all Trot.
Cotton Tail Wins Three-Eighths Mile Dash.

Here's Regards. That illustrious son of Peep-o'-Day furnished the sensation of the afternoon yesterday on the Cotton Palace track, winning the mile running race, the last event, after he apparently was clear out of it. Taken from every angle, the racing program yesterday was the best of the meet to date. The starts were, in the main, first class, and every finish was exciting.

The track was lightning fast, in fact Black Squaw stepped off the mile for the neat mark of 2:11 1-4 in the final heat of the 2:11 pace, setting a track record. The slowest time made in any of the harness races was 2:17 1-4 in the first heat of the free-for-all trot, much faster than in most of the races on previous days.

Art Smith Williams, the daring young aviator, gave one of his classiest exhibitions yesterday, high in midair just in front of the grand stand. He does not take the chances some of the other breedmen do but he does some superb flying and some of his feats were greeted with prolonged applause from the onlookers.

No Races Today.

There will be no races today, the football game between Baylor and Oklahoma A. & M. being the afternoon attraction, but the races will be resumed again next week. If the track improves any more over what it was yesterday some fine records will be set during this, the initial Cotton Palace meet.

The Limited came in on time, according to schedule, in the first two heats of the 2:11 pace, but was flagged and forced to stop at the switch in the final effort by Black Squaw, the dusky little animal having to set a track record to do it. Every start in this race was good and every finish exciting.

Each finish was fought out between the ebony-hued Black Squaw and the grey Limited, first one color then another flashing in front. There were two other blacks, Hal J and Lady Direct, and a couple of bays, Garrity and Daisy Gratton, each of which took turns bringing up the rear. The four last named formed a sort of second division and there were in reality two races in each heat. Lady Direct, Garrity and Daisy Gratton each finished third and Hal J was in fourth position at the conclusion of the two heats.

Black and Grey Fight it Out.

It sure was a race. Black Squaw made gallant efforts to slip ahead of Limited in the first two heats but was unable to do so. Both Limited and Black Squaw were behind until the back stretch was reached in the second heat, but they went around all contenders and fought it out alone under the wire.

Daisy Gratton got off in front in the last heat and was still in front at the end of the first half mile. Unable to keep the pace the leader faltered as Black Squaw and the Limited were extended. The grand stand rose on a mass as the two classy animals came flying down the stretch, there being enthusiastic applause as Black Squaw drew away and flashed under the wire not only a winner, but setting a track record.

Had Wildwood Boy been able to get away good the result might have been different in the free-for-all trot. Tobe Woods took all three heats, however, and looked to be a little better than all contenders. In the first heat Diefenbach, driving Tobe Woods, slowed up a little in the stretch. He glanced back over his shoulder just in time to see Wildwood Boy coming like the wind and speeded enough to keep his position.

Wildwood Boy was away behind at

Crowd at the Baylor-Sewanee Game

An ever larger crowd than saw Sewanee and Baylor play is expected at Cotton Palace park this afternoon to witness the contest between the local collegians and the strong team from Oklahoma A. & M. Both teams excellent in use of the spectacular forward pass.

TELEPHONE ETIQUETTE.

Says the Denton Record and Chronicle:

"Some folks who are as 'nice as pie' in personal conversation, think they can't talk over the telephone without speaking gruffly and roughly with a deep, coarse voice, and yet if there is any particular place where one should go out of one's way to use a soft, courteous, pleasant tone, it is when using the telephone. Talking face to face, one may allow for another's naturally rough voice, because his expression apprizes one if the voice is one of nature or of an ugly humor. But over the telephone, lacking visible expression, one wonders when a person talks harshly if he is really angry or if he is like some others who think the harsh voice is the only kind that a telephone will transmit."

That's good as far as it goes, Brother Edwards, but you might have added that the person using the telephone ought to be as "nice as pie" in calling for the phone over which he wishes to converse. "Central" is human, has lots of things to contend with during the day, and while one's sense of the proprieties should compel him to treat her as a woman should be treated, there is the business side of the matter to consider in that one who is polite to the operators will always get quicker and better service than one who is rough and surly in his manners.

Another point in telephone etiquette that needs to be borne in mind is that the telephone, in order to be of most use to the patron who pays for it must be open to the largest number of calls. This is impossible where conversationalists tie up the phone for long periods of time on matters that are wholly trivial. The telephone "pest" is a modern discovery, but he needs to be swatted wherever found, politely, if possible, and if he does not yield to that character of treatment, then less diplomatic methods might well be resorted to.

Notwithstanding the fact that the Beaumont Enterprise suffered a bad fire last Sunday night, its big 72-page special edition commemorating the opening of the Southeast Texas Fair, appeared on time Wednesday morning and chuck full of good news and features, attractively told. The edition is a very creditable one in every way, particularly pleasing from a mechanical point of view, and from the large and select amount of advertising carried, demonstrates the fact that Beaumont business is in good condition and has confidence in the Enterprise as an advertising medium.

Cullen Thomas says he has no more idea of opposing Governor Ferguson for re-election next year than he has of running against Yuan Shi Kai for president of China. Brethren McLeomore and Lochridge will have to hold another pro elimination conference in Dallas and put out a new slate.

That good rain which delayed the races at the Cotton Palace for a day Thursday contributed a good deal toward the fall oat crop, which will mean much for the horses next year, and also for the wheat crop, which will mean much for the horses' owners another season.

There are some people who do not see any virtue in crowing, but the Order of Red Roosters woke Houston up and the old town has been very much awake ever since.

CHILDREN'S LAW OF 1915.

Forty-five state and territorial legislatures and the congress of the United States in 1915 passed laws affecting children, according to the Children's Bureau, which has just completed its survey of such legislation during the current year. Special reference is made to the impressive bulk of children's laws and to the number of commissions appointed to study and prepare for future legislation.

Arkansas, Florida and Utah have commissions to report on the needs of the feeble-minded; New Jersey, a commission to prepare a state program for the reorganization of public care of defectives, dependents, and delinquents; Missouri and New Hampshire, commissions on the needs of the blind; Delaware, a commission on vocational education; Idaho, a commission to report on the need for a minimum wage law; Florida and Indiana, commissions on the need for mothers' pensions, and California, a commission to study social insurance. The bureau says that the appointment of these commissions indicates a growing realization that benevolent intent cannot safely be accepted as a substitute for the careful formulation of statutes for social betterment. The subjects to which study is directed are all of immediate concern to children, and the states are thus fairly committed to a policy of selecting and harmonizing provisions which leads plainly toward the collection and codifying of all laws relating to children.

As showing the great amount of children's legislation the bureau says that twenty-seven states have amended their provisions for dependent children; eighteen have improved their treatment of juvenile delinquents; sixteen have strengthened their child labor law; fourteen have concerned themselves with the needs of the mentally defective or feeble-minded; three states and the District of Columbia were added to those specifically permitting the use of public school buildings as social centers and nine amended or for the first time passed a playground law; and four states passed a model vital statistics law in which the children's bureau is interested because it considers complete birth registration of fundamental importance to child welfare work.

A few of the forty-five states made notable advances. Alabama, for example, whose legislature meets only once in four years, enacted a new child labor law, a compulsory school attendance law, an excellent desertion and non-support law and a statewide juvenile court law. Florida remodeled its treatment of juvenile delinquents, recognized the principle of compulsory school attendance, passed the model vital statistics law, and appointed two of the state commissions already referred to. Kansas established an industrial commission to regulate hours, wages and conditions of work for women and minors, and a division of child hygiene in the state board of health; it also enacted a playground law and a mothers' pension law. New Jersey and Wyoming passed comprehensive acts relating to the care of dependent children and Pennsylvania carefully drafted laws relating to child labor and vocational education.

The children's bureau has included in its review the outlying territories of the United States and reports that Alaska has forbidden the employment of boys under 16 underground in mines; Hawaii has passed a curfew law for girls under 16 in Honolulu; the Philippines have provided for dental clinics in the schools and created a public welfare board to establish and maintain social centers; and Porto Rico has passed a modern juvenile court law.

THE JEWS IN RUSSIA.

The position of the Jew in Russia has for some time been the subject of anxious concern in all countries where the hardships that these people have been called upon to endure have been, in any way, appreciated, says the Christian Science Monitor. It has not, however, been easy to ascertain how exactly the position stands. There has been much promise, at times, of such indications have, all too often, been followed up by descriptions of the treatment of the Jews which went to show that, in a large number of instances, their lot had not been rendered easier, but very much more difficult, owing to the war.

In these circumstances the authoritative statement, recently made by W. A. Appleton, the honorary president of the Workers' League for Jewish Emancipation, is particularly welcome. Mr. Appleton, during the recent visit of the Russian finance minister to London, discussed with him the whole position, and obtained from M. Bark a very reassuring statement as to the government's intentions toward the Jew. The Jew, M. Bark said, undoubtedly had claims to consideration, and the government had been pressed to bring forward laws conferring additional rights upon him. This, however, would have meant much discussion and perhaps hostility, and so the government had decided that the better way was to take the matter entirely into its own hands, and bring about the necessary liberating process by the expedient, familiar enough in Russia, of administrative action.

That the government was right in taking this course, few who know anything of internal conditions in Russia will be inclined to doubt. It has, moreover, a very interesting and hopeful significance at the present moment. The anti-Semitic party in Russia was peculiarly active just before the war, as is evidenced fully enough by the ritual trial at Kieff, and the widespread operations it revealed of the doings and aims of the notorious Black Hundred. The war has relegated this society, like many others, to the background of interest or action, but the general outlook which rendered the existence of such a society possibly still there, and all the feeling it engendered is ready to express itself through many channels. A debate on the subject of Jewish emancipation in the duma might have proved disastrous. It speaks much, therefore, not only for the liberal tendency of the government, but for their confidence in the growing liberalism of the country in this matter, that they should have taken the course they did. The Russian government, M. Bark explained, proceeding on the assumption that knowledge and association would break down prejudices and pave the way for the granting of further privileges, has removed restrictions, and is permitting Jews to settle down and live amongst the rest of the population. It is true that certain districts are still closed to the Jews, but they are mainly those inhabited by Cossacks and the measure is taken, M. Bark claimed, in the interests of the Jews themselves. The whole action, therefore, displays a forward policy which is more than welcome.

GERMANS NOT SUPERMEN.

During the past fourteen months Germany has given a wonderful account of herself. She has won a decisive victory nowhere; but she has commanded the world's admiration, both by her superb fighting ability and the revelation of her remarkable resources, observes the New Orleans States.

Put it begins to be apparent that after all Germans are not supermen. One has only to read the German newspapers to be convinced of that fact. Germany has not been able to make the clouds give rain when they would not, and, hence, her crop is short, with the one exception of potatoes. She has not been able to invent anything to take the place of copper, cotton, wool or foods. She cannot produce men to meet the drain of war.

That is not all. We have been led to believe that the German system was so perfect that inefficiency was impossible; that patriotism was so high that graft was incredible; that unity in the war was such that perfect leveling of the ranks had been attained.

But even the German papers now tell us that these things are not true. There is bitter arraignment of the rich for shifting the heavier burdens to the poor; of rules certain classes are allowed to break and others forced to obey; of heartless speculation in food supplies at the expense of the lower classes; of contractors making fortunes out of the paramount needs of the nation, and beneath the mask of confidence in the result of the war, an increasing weariness over the tremendous daily toll of human lives.

All these things we have heard of the other nations engaged in the war. To hear them of Germany is to confirm the impressions of those who forecast that if the war was prolonged sufficiently, we should discover that, remarkable as the Germans are in the arts of war and the efficiencies of peace, they after all are not superhuman, but human beings like the rest of us.

Our neighbor, the Waxahachie Light, expresses the Bell county situation today in a nutshell as follows: "Governor Ferguson says the local option election in Bell county is a slap at his administration. We thought it was a slap at the saloons. Is there any direct connection between the two?"

An exchange informs us that Webster's Blue Back Speller is coming back into use in the public schools. This is a case of getting back to fundamentals, as Brother George Robinson would say. It ought to mean a better crop of spellers for the next generation.

The sunshine dispensed by the editors of Texas, here Thursday for Press Day at the Cotton Palace, was sufficient in force and volume to drive the clouds away.

Bob Yantis of Athens informs us that Henderson county is raising more potatoes and fewer politicians this year. In this respect Henderson county is setting a valuable example to her sisters of the state.

Barn Burns at Marlin.
Special to the Morning News.
Marlin, Nov. 12.—Thursday night at 10:30, fire broke out in the barn of Dan Fischer at the rear of his home on Clark street and before the fire department reached the premises, the walls had fallen in. The barn was two-thirds full of hay and the total loss was a little under $200, all of which was covered by insurance. Mr. Fischer stated the delay in getting the alarm in was occasioned through trouble in securing telephone connection. No cause has been assigned for the fire.

During the banquet County Superintendent G. A. Pringle and Judge Heffner made stirring addresses on the good of the order and the then existing occasion.

Investigating Attempted Wreck.
Special to the Morning News.
Dallas, Nov. 12.—Sheriff Will K. Reynolds, city detective and representatives of the Southern Traction company at Dallas, are investigating an effort to wreck a Corsicana interurban train five miles south of Dallas last Wednesday night. That the investigation is being made came to light Friday morning. Thursday afternoon the officers went to the scene and investigated. They found that spikes had been removed from the cross ties a rail length. For some reason the interurban car passed over the rail without it turning. The train crew on the 10 o'clock car discovered the spikes had been removed.

Narrow Escape of Conductor at Mart.
Special to the Morning News.
Mart, Nov. 12.—C. E. Wininger, freight conductor on the I. & G. N., was thrown from his caboose yesterday afternoon about 4:30 o'clock. Coming into the yard the engine broke a rail, causing the emergency brakes to be thrown on, which threw Mr. Wininger on the track. A negro standing by jerked him off the track before the wheels ran over him or he might have met instant death. He received two broken ribs and was badly stunned, but whether he received any internal injuries has not been ascertained.

BRIGHTER CHILDREN

Children are probably brighter to-day than a generation ago—but are they stronger? That's a grave question. So many pinched faces, dulled eyes and languid feelings make us wonder if they will ever grow into robust, healthy men and women.

If your children catch colds easily, are tired when rising, lack healthy color, or find studies difficult, give them Scott's Emulsion for one month to enrich their blood and restore the body-forces to healthy action.

Scott's Emulsion is used in private schools. It is not a "patent medicine", simply a highly concentrated oil-food, without alcohol or harmful drugs. It cannot harm; it improves blood; it benefits lungs and strengthens the system. Your druggist has it—refuse substitutes. Scott & Bowne, Bloomfield, N. J. 15-22

In one Southwest Texas town inspectors of the comptroller's department took the testimony of the operators of seven of these clubs and it was found that one of the clubs has 235 members while another has 158 members, and many of the members are not even residents of the town.

Austin, Nov. 12.—There will be a decrease of approximately 4000 Confederate pensioners in the state when Commissioner Jones completes his task of making an examination into the question of whether or not many of the pensioners are "indigents" as contemplated by the pension law. He has been making an investigation and finds that probably the number herein given are not entitled to pensions, having a sufficient amount of property to exclude them from the pensions they now enjoy. He says the law will save the state not less than $12,000 a year when he has completed the task.

Style Promenade Shows Possibilities of Cotton

From the Old Negro Mammy with her big cotton-checked dress and the ever-present pickaninny to the ultra modern styles, cotton was used exclusively in a unique style promenade in the Cotton Palace Coliseum yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The dresses worn by the young women showed the possibilities of cotton as a material for all needs, from strict utilitarian purposes to ultra styles.

Miss Rose Edmond, 1401 Morrow street, was in charge of the feature. Those participating were: Martha Whitehurst, Sue Edmond, Erin McDaniel, Clemence Vivrett, Anita Olenbush, Lucie Bunkley, Master Bob Ward and Master Joe Slesser. Miss Whitehurst was dressed to represent an old-time negro mammy, and accompanying her were the two pickaninnyes. Some of the young women were attired in fluffy cotton and were decked with bows. Others were gowned in cotton cretonne of the latest fashions, with muffs of cotton and cotton ornaments.

During the promenade the strains of the orchestra were heard from the palm-covered band stand, as the children of King Cotton praised his glories in a novel manner.

AGRICULTURE EXHIBIT APPEALS TO FARMERS AT COTTON PALACE

They are busy folks at the state agricultural exhibit, agricultural hall, at the Cotton Palace.

Of particular interest, seemingly, is the cotton and cotton by-products division. Its attraction is not due wholly to the fact, either that name "cotton" is associated with the name of the big Cotton Palace, must always lend interest, but also because Prof. William Wehe, expert, has a display that probably was never equalled in a Southern exposition.

"Prof. Wehe has an exhibit that is proving of material interest to every cotton grower and cotton dealer who visits the Cotton Palace," said Paul Wipprecht, scientific in his judgment and information upon the South's greatest product. "The educational value of the cotton and cotton by-products exhibit absolutely is incalculable. The planters, too, are recognizing this fact and are giving the closest attention to the impromptu lectures of Prof. Wehe and thorough inspection to the results of scientific experiments in planting, cultivation and marketing of cotton as shown and discussed at the state agricultural booth."

Nearby is the "agricultural" as distinguished from the "cotton" display of the state agricultural department. Both exhibits are under the general supervision of the state department. W. Oltendorf has personal charge of the agricultural exhibit. He, like Prof. Wehe, gives impromptu lectures upon the various phases of farming.

"It's small wonder that the people flock to the agricultural exhibit," said R. T. Cole, of the agricultural and industrial department of the Cotton Belt, who, incidentally, is in charge of the Cotton Belt's exhibit at the state department. "The overwhelming interest of the people are directly and practically all others indirectly interested in the development and advancement of agriculture. Mr. Cole's department's display surpasses anything of the kind I have ever witnessed. It is more than a liberal education in farming of every variety of crop and soil. Exhibits of that character do practicable good."

Mr. Wipprecht, after visiting here for several days, left last night for Lavaca county, where he will act as a judge at an exposition now in progress. He will return to Austin Sunday. He will not be able to again visit the Cotton Palace this season.

Wesley Federation Will Have Banquet on Thanksgiving

Owing to counter attractions the meeting of the City Federation of Wesley Adult Bible classes held last night at the Austin Avenue Methodist church was not as largely attended as usual but a good crowd was present. Roll call showed Elm Street with the largest attendance followed by Austin Avenue and Fifth Street. An attractive program was rendered, after which the business session was held.

Horace Williams, chairman of the extension committee, read the names of his committee and reported Wide-Awake Class No. 7 of Morrow Street for membership, which on Thanksgiving will be reported for membership on the honorary roll basis.

R. C. Wesleyan Class No. 3707 of Atwell, which was admitted, and that a class at Ross wanted someone to be sent out there to organize same. Reported that this would be attended to.

Miss Maud Sharp, chairman of the social committee, reported the names of her committee. The committee was pointed to see about having a Wesleyan day at the Cotton Palace reported that owing to considerable opposition they had decided to abandon the idea of having a day this year. The report was received and filed and the committee discharged.

A motion to appoint a delegate to the general conference to be held at Corsicana this month was defeated. J. E. Porter moved that a committee be appointed to see about arranging for banquet to take place on Thanksgiving night, which carried. President Carraway appointed the committee and same will report back to him in a few days.

After accepting an invitation to meet with Herring Avenue on the second Friday in December the meeting adjourned to partake of refreshments.

TRAVELERS' AID IS WORTHY PHILANTHROPY

CITY FEDERATION OF MISSIONARY SOCIETIES APPEALS FOR AID IN WORK.

Usefulness Strongly Brought Out by Rush of Travel Incident to the Cotton Palace.

With the coming of the Cotton Palace crowds came the need of competent assistance to travelers at the crowded railroad stations, and the women of the City Federation of Missionary Societies met this need. Through the co-operation of the Katy railroad officials, the women were able to secure a travelers' aid for the Missouri, Kansas & Texas station, and by their own efforts are maintaining an assistant to the regular matron at the Cotton Belt depot.

Because of the greater traffic passing through the Cotton Belt, with the seasonal influx entering this station, this is an especially needy point for the travelers' aid. Confident of the support of the interested public in this work, the federation employed an assistant to the public at this depot during the days of the exposition. Calling for prompt action as it did, the women met the situation by securing a woman for the post, and are now planning to meet the added expense and to build up the efficiency of this department of the federation's service to the public.

In speaking of the needs of the federation in supporting this work, Mrs. W. W. Woodson, chairman of the federation, declared there were several ways in which business men of the city and women who are interested can show a definite spirit of co-operation.

"Our assistant which we placed at the Cotton Belt depot means added expense, and contributions from citizens to this meritorious work will be greatly appreciated by the federated societies."

Assistance of a definite nature also will greatly add to the equipment and consequently result in greater convenience and efficiency in handling the situation, said Mrs. Woodson.

A pressing need was suggested by the incident of the fainting of the wife of a promising business man of a neighboring town at the station a few days ago. Having no emergency cot or stretcher, it was necessary for the travelers' aid to lay the exhausted woman on a bench, and the best that could be done under the circumstances, but was very inconvenient and unsatisfactory. A folding cot is particularly needed by the department, and the women in charge declare that the donor of an emergency cot would confer a great favor to those who are making this Travelers' Aid service possible.

This is only one of many emergency hospital articles that would greatly enhance the power of the travelers' aid. It is the desire of the department to furnish a room for the station matron which will be equipped with everything necessary to make the travelers' aid meet all demands of those needing assistance at the depot.

In discussing their work for the public's information, the federation has given out the following communication: "What Travelers' Aid is—that quiet, efficient woman with the little steel badge seen at our known and most intelligent woman in the city called her the station matron. Now a station matron has charge of the sanitary condition and the general welfare of the travelers' aid. It is literally that—an Aid in any and all ways to the traveling public: to old men and old women; to young men and maidens.

"Do we realize the tragedies she sees and often does prevent, or the solace she can give? Perhaps a floor, a room, a woman with her children and just a touch of money for her ticket is detained in the city over night. The city is a terrifying metropolis to her, and she is alone, with her feet and lodging? Where will she get food and lodging? The Travelers' Aid steps in with her emergency fund and she is sent on her way rejoicing, and the money usually is returned."

"A young girl misses her trade and the evils of the white slave, who is sent away from her. A young man is sent away from his train and the Aid is ready with cot, pillows, clean sheets, clean towels and perhaps a necessary stimulant until the doctor arrives. Little children are sent from point to point alone. An accident occurs and they would be stranded, indeed, but for the motherly care of the Travelers' Aid.

"The necessity for guarding the young girls is felt, and especially during the Cotton Palace season of excitement and pleasure, where they are allowed to go to city unchaperoned. Realizing the need of additional protection for the girls who visit the Cotton Palace, the directors of the Cotton Palace have placed a woman police guard on the extension committee, read the names of his committee and reported Wide-Awake Class No. 7 of Morrow Street for membership, which on Thanksgiving will be reported for membership on the honorary roll basis.

R. C. Wesleyan Class No. 3707 of Atwell, which was admitted, and that a class at Ross wanted someone to be sent out there to organize same. Reported that this would be attended to.

Miss Maud Sharp, chairman of the social committee, reported the names of her committee. Attracted by the little cricket comes from the frolic place. Timidly he does not like such a part of the rose garden to continue in a burst of impulse, he dashes fearfully into their midst, and shows them a glimpse of his own. Pleased with his gracefulness, the butterflies make him welcome to their number.

7. Tug of war, blind boys vs. Waco school boys.
Mr. Ernest Wayland at the piano; Mr. J. W. Derr, director of boys; Miss Mabel Penfield, director of girls.

The production especially appeals to the eye, and the pictures are so realistic that the audience is almost convinced that the original stirring events.

Brain Blood Supply Must Be Good.
The importance of having pure blood is perhaps never more deeply impressed on us than when we are told by physiologists that if the brain is supplied with impure blood, nervous and bilious headache, confusion of ideas, loss of memory, impaired intellect, dimness of vision and dullness of hearing, are experienced, and in time the brain becomes disorganized and the brittle thread of life is broken.

The more we learn of the usefulness of the great blood purifier, Hood's Sarsaparilla, the more grateful we are for this old and successful family medicine, which has accomplished so much in removing scrofula, rheumatism and catarrh and other blood diseases and correcting run-down conditions of the system. If you need a blood purifier, get Hood's Sarsaparilla.

H. & T. C. TOWNS WELL REPRESENTED AT COTTON PALACE

MART AND MARLIN WILL COME ON SPECIAL TRAINS NEXT WEEK.

It was H. & T. C. Day at the Cotton Palace yesterday. That is, the program committee set aside yesterday in special recognition of visitors from towns along the Houston and Texas Central, particularly listing Mart, Calvert, Marlin, Hearne, Bryan, Navasota, Brenham, and others.

"Many of the towns on the Houston and Texas Central for today overruled the Cotton Palace management and reset their days for next week," said Postmaster W. H. Hoffmann of the Cotton Palace committee last night. "Among these are Mart and Marlin, both of which cities will run special trains into Waco next week. Regardless of this, there were scores here during yesterday from all H. & T. C. points. They came by regular trains and in automobiles. The Warpath, the exposition buildings and grounds literally were lined with visitors from along the H. & T. C."

According to City Passenger Agent T. J. Shields, every train coming into the union station over the Houston and Texas Central was loaded with holiday crowds. He stated that while no special trains were run, all the regulars had the general appearance of a real excursion.

"It's certain the folks along the Central have been watching the official program and knew that today was 'their day,'" said John M. Mathis Jr., son of Judge John M. Mathis of Brenham and an attaché of the general offices at the Cotton Palace. "I am only pretty fairly acquainted with the people along the H. & T. C. between here and as far down as Brenham, and I know I have seen a half thousand people whom I know in that section here today. This Cotton Palace is becoming something large."

HIPPODROME.

"The Blindness of Devotion."

Essentially a Fox production is "The Blindness of Devotion," showing at the Hippodrome, and it bears all the characteristics of that master director's telling dramas. The famous Shakspearean artists, Richard B. Mantell and his wife, Genevieve Hamper, use this play for their debut in the pictures and it is worthy of their splendid talents.

The story deals with an adventuresome who wrecked the home and the lives of four people in quick succession, and then learned that "the wages of sin is death." Count de Carnay adopts as his ward the little son of a fellow officer at the latter's death, and rears him to manhood as his own. A beautiful French adventuresome charms the count, no longer young, and he sacrifices his honors and reputation for her sake. The young man, Pierre, and the count's young niece, Bella, have a beautiful romance, ignorant of the count's obsession. After many striking scenes, snake-like, Renee determines to bring the youth also under her power and accomplishes her purpose. This occurrence breaks the spell she has woven over the count, and from then on it is a battle of wits between the two, and literally a battle to the death. The beautiful traitress dies from poison that her own hand had prepared for the count.

Genevieve Hamper is pronounced by artists of reputation as the most perfect type of a beautiful woman. She is called "the modern Helen, typifying in her wonderful mobile and expressive features the beauty of the ages. Her husband, Richard B. Mantell, needs no introduction to the public; his delineation of the strong characters of Shakspeare is known to every patron and admirer of the stage. These two artists are supported by a strong Fox cast. This modern drama will show at the Hippodrome today and tomorrow.

Mantell Believes Shakspeare Sleeps.

"I would not go so far as to say that Shakspeare is dead, but he is in a deep sleep, and while in this cataleptic state, I have decided to keep abreast of the times, and therefore have gone into motion pictures. Unless an actor is a freak, or has something of a freakish nature to present, there is no place for him on the stage today." In these words, Robert Mantell, perhaps the greatest living exponent of Shakspearean drama, summed up his reason for leaving the legitimate drama and Shakspearean roles to appear on the screen for William Fox, under a contract to be featured in a series of modern dramas, the first of which is "The Blindness of Devotion."

This famous man, whose "King Lear" and "Richard the Third," and a score of other heavy Shakspearean characters are known the world around, sits on the veranda of his palatial home at Red Bank, N. J., as he discussed his reasons for finally succumbing to the lure of the motion picture.

"I have no fault to find with the public," continued Mr. Mantell. "They have supported me loyally these many years and they have given me this home. But today there is no general public for the actor, no matter whether he be tragedian or some other type. The general public is now found in the motion picture houses. There were times in the old days when I could always count on 800 or 1,000 boys in the gallery. Recently, I played to as many as ten or twelve. Then we began to depend upon the schools and colleges for patronage, but they too began to slip away from us, at last conquered by the lure of the motion picture."

"I recall the days, not so far back, when it seemed as if all the automobiles in the cities where I was presenting Shakspearean roles were parked at the theatre where I was playing. But that day has gone. Few automobiles were seen around the theatre where I was playing during my last two seasons. Down the street you would see them parked around the motion picture theatre."

QUEEN.

Story of "Blue Grass."

At a race My Lady, a horse belonging to Colonel Taylor, a true southern gentleman, wins, but is injured so seriously that she will be unable to run again.

Wilfred Warren, a young gentleman, wagers a large sum on the mare, but is cheated out of his winnings by Kelley, an unscrupulous character of the track.

The next day Colonel Taylor, being in straitened circumstances, breeds My Lady and Blue Grass, a striking colt is born. Another year and the colt starts to break and train Blue Grass. Another colt is born. Finances become tighter.

In the meanwhile, Warren meets Virginia, the colonel's daughter, a love affair resulting. The colonel, forced to sacrifice the second colt, sends his son, Morgan, who forced to accept a smaller sum than expected, to get the money on a "sure tip" and loses. In his anger the colonel casts him off, ordering him out of the house.

Kelley, in an effort to buy My Lady, meets Virginia, and determines to get her as he determines to get the mare.

Just before the race in which Blue Grass is entered, the colonel, badly in need of money, sells the mare to Kelley, upon the latter's promise to sell her back, on the event of Blue Grass winning the race. The colonel uses the money received for a side bet on his horse and Kelley frames the race against him.

Morgan, now Kelley's cashier, meets Warren, who on learning his identity, brings about a meeting between Morgan and Virginia, and caught red-handed by the colonel, is forbidden to see Virginia again. On learning Kelley's intentions, Morgan quits Kelley.

In the race Blue Grass is left footed by the bribed starter, but starts after the rest and wins.

Warren, learning of Kelley's plot to steal My Lady, even up old scores, bringing about a reconciliation and all ends as it should today.

AT THE REX.

"The Mummy and the Humming Bird."

Mitha has been written about the wrong a good man often does his wife, more often than not entirely unintentionally, by his neglect of her and the responsibility of the home is his; but it remains for the Famous Players Film company to present on the screen a vivid illustration of this evil of married life. "The Mummy and the Humming Bird," in which Charles Cherry stars, and showing at the Rex today, tells the pathetic and almost tragic story of a scientist, a dreamer, a lovable character, but a man who forgets that his wife is young and pretty and pleasure-loving, and is entitled to his attentions and thoughts and plans to furnish some diversion for her. He is a mummy as far as the world outside of his realm of science is concerned. And just because his wife is charming and naturally craves companionship, is no wonder that one of the "humming birds" with which the world is cursed should strive to rob her of her sweetness. So she, innocent but indiscreet, finds pleasure in the attentions of the Italian author famed in London for his clever writings and made much of in society. London does not know that the handsome d'Orelli has robbed other homes of their sweetness back in sunny Italy, and that even now the avenger, passionate, wronged Giuseppe, is tracing him in London.

As time goes on the wife agrees to elope with d'Orelli. Through a chance accident the "mummy" has learned of the affair and from him of the Italian's affair with his wife. Realizing that he himself is much to blame for the state of affairs, he goes to the traitor d'Orelli, the night of the planned elopement, and with splendid tact and lack of anger persuades his wife to go home, for Giuseppe is after him. The wronged man, however, has laid his plans with accuracy, and the traitor dies a traitor's death. The "mummy" is transformed and the tragedy of his own home averted. This strong play is the feature at the Rex today.

Mary Pickford in "Madame Butterfly." The infinite beauty of "Madame Butterfly," in which the Famous Players Film company is starring the exquisite Mary Pickford, at the Rex three days starting Sunday, places this Paramount picture among the few really great productions which have ever been given to the motion picture public. The foremost producers have again scored a triumph by the masterly manner in which the film version of this celebrated tragedy has been presented. Every detail of staging is correct and artistic in the extreme. It breathes the very spirit and atmosphere of Japan.

Mary Pickford, upon whom the burden of the play falls, has another admirable opportunity of proving how capable and gifted an artist she is, and her success is complete. She has assumed this role—the first Oriental character that she has ever played, of the loving, deserted Japanese wife.

who waits patiently for the return of her faithless husband and has acted to perfection. Every phase of the gaily, hopefulness, the motherly love, the dignity, and fidelity to the underserving lover, the sorrow and the resignation—all are faithfully pictured. The power and emotionalism which she puts into the tragic portrayal will make it stand head and shoulders above any of her previous performances, even the immortal "Tess of the Storm Country."

For the production of this masterpiece, which has the distinction of being the first work of an American author to be converted into a great opera, one of the highest authorities on Japanese customs and costumes in New York City was especially engaged in order that no detail in screen or property could be overlooked. The most magnificent Japanese gardens in the United States were obtained as settings for the tragedy, and nothing was omitted which could add to the effectiveness of the presentation.

More Better Babies Examined Yesterday

Sixty-six of the prettiest babies that ever blinked an eye at a foolish looking grown person, or nipped the useful end of a bottle, were taken to the Cotton Palace yesterday morning by their protecting mothers, where they were examined by a corps of physicians, specialists, dentists and trained nurses. The blessed little youngsters kept the medical men mighty busy for several hours. It is no easy task to have a bunch of big doctor men poking around the frames of little babies. Neither is it an easy task for the doctors to examine 66 babies in the course of a few hours.

Mothers should bear in mind that the grand baby show will take place in the Coliseum next Monday afternoon from 3 to 4:30 p. m. The grand prize winning babies will be announced between these hours, and the presentation of the hundreds of beautiful prizes will be made.

This will be one of the feature attractions of the entire Cotton Palace season. The Coliseum will be crowded at an early hour, as everybody will naturally be desirous of seeing the finest specimens of babyhood in the state of Texas.

A moving picture will be taken of the babies and their mothers while they are assembled in the Coliseum. This will be done under the supervision of the publicity department of the Cotton Palace. The pictures will be shown all over the country.

The examinations were made by Drs. Gage, Hale, Ballard, Smith, Fenelle, M. V. Lowery of Gates, and Dr. Sharp of Granger. The eye, ear, nose and throat specialists were Drs. Farrell and Aynesworth. Drs. Stewart and Sonntag composed the dental committee.

S. W. U. STUDENTS PLAN REUNION HERE

UNIVERSITY BOOTH AT COTTON PALACE WILL BE MECCA FOR VISITORS.

Invitations Sent Out to Every Former Student Whose Picture Hangs in the Booth.

"Dear Old Student—You are cordially invited and urged to be present at the hanging of your picture in the Southwestern's Picture Gallery, at the Main building, Southwest Balcony, near Fine Arts Department. Time, any time between November 6 and 21. The booth is pretty and we want you to see it. Cordially yours, A. Dee Simpson, Secretary."

That note, typewritten in a postal card, was sent to 340 former students and graduates of the Southwestern university, Georgetown, whose pictures appear in the gallery of photographs at the Southwestern's exhibit at the Cotton Palace. Each of the 340 men whose photos appear in the display have attained reputations in their varied and chosen lines of more than local limits—many having become famous in law, statecraft, commercialism, pedagogy, and the ministry throughout the entire country.

The personal invitations and the reputation of the men, together with the exceedingly pleasing arrangement of the exhibit, probably accounts for the popularity of the Southwestern's booth at the big exposition. Miss Fern Moorman, in charge during the absence of Secretary Simpson, is a busy hostess in the main building of the south's most unique show. Hundreds come every day and register, and scores, who formerly attended the university or who had intimate friends among the student body, linger to make minute inspection or develop their social natures by chats with other visitors.

"The Cotton Palace in our division of this big building seems more like a 'home coming' than a mere exhibit to exploit a great educational institution," said Miss Moorman, tired but happy, last night. "Every one seems to have a personal interest in the Southwestern's display—many of them have attended school at Georgetown, or else their daughters, their brothers, uncles, cousins or friends. You see how very congested our guest list is now. It's that way nearly all the time. I do not feel like I am at work supervising an attraction at a well organized exposition—rather I feel like I am acting as one of the reception committee at an alumni banquet or other festive event."

Suggestive of the reason of the popularity of the Southwestern's booth the names of a few of the distinguished Texans whose pictures appear will be sufficient. In just one line, the law, the following among a score of others are looking you straight in the eye: Judge William Hawkins, Austin; Judge T. L. McCulloch, Waco; Judge R. H. Birney, Kerrville; Judge W. L. Dean, Huntsville; Judge Sam Streetman, Houston; Judge D. E. Decker, Quanah; Judge S. W. Dean, Madisonville; R. E. L. Knight, Dallas; A. L. Camp, Fort Worth; Wilbur E. Allen, Austin; John D. Hughes, Georgetown; G. W. Barcus, Waco; Earle B. Mayfield, Austin; Robert L. Henry, Waco; W. A. Tarver, Corsicana; Nat G. Hollins, Aspermont; John M. Mathis, Brenham; Mat F. Allison, San Saba, and others. It is remotely possible that there are a few in Texas who perhaps never heard of the Southwestern—it is certain, however, that there's not in the entire state one who has not heard of some of the men appearing in the "legal list of Southwestern graduates."

More Space Needed for Basket Weaving Exhibit at Palace

The art of basket weaving as portrayed in the Women's department at the Cotton Palace on the second floor of the main building has become so exceedingly popular that it has become necessary to secure more commodious quarters for that particular phase of the exposition.

Mrs. W. O. Wilkes, the general chairman of the Women's department, has happily solved the problem by transferring the basket weaving exhibit to a large tent that is located to the left of the main entrance to the Cotton Palace grounds, immediately north of the agricultural building.

Miss Margaret Graham Burroughs of Austin has charge of this clever feature that is attracting so much attention. Miss Burroughs is perhaps one of the most noted and proficient artists and crafts woman in the southwest. She conducts the famous "Barn Studio" at Austin. This studio is one of the principal attractions of Austin. She has studied art at the Newcomb Art school, New Orleans; New York School of Fine Arts, Chase school, Florence, Italy; Columbia university, New York. She is a recognized authority on arts and crafts.

The ladies connected with the Cotton Palace are particularly gratified in having an attraction of this kind at the exposition. Miss Burroughs will be at the tent every afternoon from 2 to 5 p. m. She will take great pleasure in answering all questions concerning her art.

With a number of society women to watch the transfer of honors from the trophy table to the proud owners, as they led their winning entries before the applauding spectators, the Cotton Palace dog show formally closed last night. Amid the deafening yelps and names of the winners could scarcely be heard, but each dog with the red, white and blue ribbon received an ovation from the kennel enthusiasts.

W. A. Holt, president of the Waco Kennel club, presided at the awarding and Mrs. Charles Moore handed the cups to the winners.

The Waco Kennel club cup for the best dog in the show, and best of breed, was won by O. P. Bennett of Washington, Ill., with his splendid collie, Tazewell Tantalizer.

The president's cup, offered by Dr. J. W. Hale, president of the Waco Kennel club, was won by Judge Erwin J. Clark of Waco with his English bull dog, Hermit's Cora.

The Provident National bank's cup for the best Eskimo dog was won by Mrs. A. H. Horne of Waco with her dog, Mack.

The Percy Willis Auto company cup for the best pointer in the show was won by Charles Vincent of Waco with his dog, Belle Meade.

The Goldstein-Miguel company cup for the best setter in the show was won by Otto Pohl of Freeport, Neb., with his imported Irish setter, Rheola Pedro.

A Rand Wilson's cup for the best male collie was won by O. P. Bennett of Washington, Ill., with his Tazewell Tantalizer.

The First State Bank and Trust company cup for the best female collie was won by O. P. Bennett's Tantalizer, a good running mate for Tazewell Tantalizer.

The J. Levinson cup for the best bull dog male was won by Heart's Desire kennels of Denver, Colo., with Heart's Desire Cousin Dick.

Armstrong & Pfeiffer cup for the best bull dog female was won by Judge Erwin J. Clark of Waco with Hermit's Cora.

The Citizens' National bank cup for the best Airedale terrier male was won by Heart's Desire Efficiency of Heart's Desire kennels.

The Fred Stuber cup for the best Airedale female was won by Dr. F. E. Rushing of Fort Worth, Texas, with Nadine Spoons.

The Sanger Bros. cup for the best bull terrier was won by R. D. McCombs of Waxahachie with Newstead Nuisance.

The Hafner & Anderson cup for the best Boston terrier male was won by Dr. R. L. Rhea and E. S. Tatum of San Antonio, Texas, with their Beau IV.

The Central Texas Exchange National bank cup for the best Boston terrier female was won by Mrs. R. H. Angell of San Antonio with her Betsy Fiasco.

The First National bank cup for the best fox terrier male was won by W. P. Marcy of Dallas with his wire-haired fox terrier, Sabine Bullion.

The Naman & Goldsmith cup for the best fox terrier female was won by Mrs. A. Self of Dallas with her smooth haired fox terrier, Meyers Rummy.

The Waco State bank cup for the best poodle in the show was won by Mrs. Charles Quinn with her dog, Toodles.

The judging of the class for the best owned by member of the Waco Kennel club developed the fact that there had been a large increase in the number of good dogs since the last dog show, nearly a year ago. Among the dogs called for by Judge Clayton in this class beside the winner, Hermit's Cora, were: Flood & Burleson's greyhound, Hail; Mrs. J. E. Horne's Eskimo, Mack; Irving Swan's English setter, Governor Gladstone; Mrs. Henry Little's Cocker Spaniel, Ringwood Lucile; Huckleberry Shear's Boston Shear's Boston terrier, Flap; Coman Shear's Boston terrier, Graceland Playmate; Mrs. Charles Quinn's toy poodle, Toodles.

Hermit's Cora, a female bull dog, owned by Judge Erwin J. Clark of Waco, was one of the most interesting entries of the show. By being entered in one more show with a hundred or more dogs and by winning again in every class she is entered in, Hermit's Cora will go into the national championship class. She has been entered in dog shows in New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Dallas, San Angelo and Waco and in each instance won first honors in each class in which she was entered. Each winning of this kind counts so many points, according to the total of entries, and when fifteen have been won the dog is awarded the honor of "champion" by the American Kennel club.

Hermit's Cora is a big, brindle bull dog, ferocious in looks, but gentle enough for a child to make a companion of.

Long before the awards were made the whelp and whine of the little poodles and the growl of the big bull dogs and the long bay of the hounds told in vivid dog language that the stars in the dog show were yearning for their own home kennel. Pretty little white lap poodles, arranged with downy cushions on the bench, whined pitifully for a caressing hand.

Petted, pampered and spoiled, the little fellows, in their daintily lined benches, could only be appeased last night, after their tiresome exhibition, by the soothing touch of some bystander. Notwithstanding the signs cautioning to "beware of the dogs," the little pats from sympathizing maids were numerous.

In a veritable pandemonium of yelping, ranging from a sharp minor to a deep bass, the appeal of the little poodles were the most poignant.

By last night, little doggies and big doggies had had enough of bringing smiles of admiration from the passing throngs. They were glad for the prizes they brought their owners, but mostly glad that they could be pets again instead of being show stars.

As the time for the awarding of the prizes drew near, the benches were in a strange state of excitement and expectancy. The old veterans of many shows must have realized that the time for awarding was near when they should be let into the judge's inclosure before smiling critics and accompany their owners back with the big, shining trophies. There was a strange light in their eyes and a glad wag of their tails.

In strange contrast with the homesick, pleading poodles with their pitiful whines, were the older dogs, visitors to many kennel shows and holders of many ribbons. Silent, dignified and reserved, their calmness in spite of homegoing and prize awarding was a study in patience. There was no whining, no yelping, no flurry—just a quiet dignity and reserved calm.

At the show, the ribbons and cups they had won and perhaps, who knows—at the success of the Texas Cotton Palace dog show.

Private cables attributed the firmness in Liverpool to continental buying and small southern offerings, while the early weather map showed heavy frosts in Oklahoma, with the official forecasts indicating that the cold weather was likely to spread over the belt.

The market here opened barely steady at an advance of 6 to 12 points, with December selling at 11.75c, March at 11.25c and May at 12.25c on the call. It seemed, however, that this advance had pretty well exhausted the immediate buying power around the ring and the market soon turned easier. Prices broke to a net loss of some 6 to 11 points. Subsequent fluctuations were more or less irregular, but the market was somewhat unsettled by December liquidation with that delivery selling off to 11.57c, while March touched 11.91c and May 12.05c during the later trading.

Spot interests bought the December against sales of the last month and offerings, combined with predictions of bullish supply and distribution figures from the census bureau tomorrow probably helped the rally of some 7 or 8 points.

Private crop estimates published ranged from 1,950,000 bales including linters, to 12,000,000, excluding linters and the growth of the season.

New Orleans, Nov. 12.—The cotton market today, after an initial bulge, was quiet and depressed, although at the best trading months were only 5 to 6 points under yesterday's last quotations. The close was at a net decline of 2 to 3 points.

On the opening the market rose 11 to 13 points in sympathy with a much higher Liverpool than last night, but the lack of the belt discouraged buyers and prices soon commenced to sag. On the decline considerable cotton was sold at exhibition halls, with their comparatively narrow aisles, offer splendid opportunities. But—

The crooks are side-stepping Waco. Incidentally, Charles James, night chief in charge of the Cotton Palace squad, has been complimented by the police chief upon the work he is doing in the group of houses entered, but in only one instance has the value of the stolen property amounted to any considerable sum. The heaviest loss at house-breaking was Wednesday afternoon when a small trunk was stolen from a North Sixteenth street home of an approximate value of $50.

According to the statistics of actual crime, the volume during the exposition period is below the usual, every day average of cities of the size of Waco. This is due to the vigilance that both night and day officers are practicing. Suspects by the droves have been herded into the station and subjected to a grill that would cause the proverbial Quaker City lawyer to look like a shyder. When the grille was able to give a proper account of himself, or herself, they were allowed evidence of possible criminal intent, he was ordered to vacate the city limits and vacate right then, and, finally, when the subject appeared to be of the viler element, he was locked up for disposition by the city court.

Alley's literally have been scraped with a fine tooth comb to uncover any hidden crookedness, crowds have been worked for pickpockets. Even the time when under normal conditions, on a register weighted with names, "plain drunk" appears with remarkable frequency. Likewise the "assault and battery" folks are getting scarce, as also are the quarrelsome contingent. Those who get boisterous are not given a chance to start trouble—they are corralled during the incipient stage.

And parents are cautioned as a matter of keeping the record straight, the highway robbery case reported last Saturday night has turned out to be a misnomer and a mistake. The alleged victim, a traveling salesman, reported the robbery. He stated he had been held up by two negroes near the railroad crossing on Eighth street while returning to town from the Katy depot. He confessed to Police Chief McNamara yesterday that the hold-up story was a false, although the loss was real enough.

It is an absolute truth that Police Chief McNamara is putting in 18 hours of every day. He is determined that stragglers who were given the privilege of leaving town or going to jail and took the former course. As a grand total, the police department has handled approximately 500 cases since the Cotton Palace began its untold volume of human filthiness to be asserted from the thousands who have visited Waco during the seven days of the exposition.

"I disposed of 36 cases in police court Monday morning," said Judge Wren last night. "That's a record in the annals of the city tribunal. More than three hundred have been handled during the present week—also, in the city court. That's a self evident fact that the police chief meant business when he declared that he was going to hold robberies and pick-pocketing down to the minimum."

And that's precisely what is being accomplished. Only one case of pocket-picking has been reported. In that case a man and a woman were arrested while they operated and the intended victim had his money returned to him. There have been three houses entered, but in only one instance has the value of the stolen property amounted to any considerable sum. The heaviest loss at house-breaking was Wednesday afternoon when a small trunk was stolen from a North Sixteenth street home of an approximate value of $50.

MARKET REPORT

COTTON

New York, Nov. 12.—The cotton market seemed to be only momentarily influenced by bullish cables and weather news. The market was quiet and steady, with prices ranging from 11.50c to 11.75c for January on the call, broke to 11.60c for that position under liquidation by recent buyers and a renewal of scattered pressure. Moderate rallies followed on covering, with January closing at 11.75c and the general list steady at a net loss of 1 to 2 points for the day.

Private cables attributed the firmness in Liverpool to continental buying and small southern offerings, while the early weather map showed heavy frosts in Oklahoma, with the official forecasts indicating that the cold weather was likely to spread over the belt.

WHEAT

By the Associated Press.
Chicago, Nov. 12.—Announcement of record-breaking exports did a good deal toward lifting the wheat market today after an early decline. The close although nervous, was 3/4 to 1/2c higher, with December at $1.04 1/4 and May at $1.05 1/4. Other leading staples, too, all scored gains—corn 3/4 to 1/2c, oats 3/4 to 1/2c, and provisions 7/8 to 1/2c.

Most of the strength in wheat developed after the posting of figures showing that exports of wheat and flour from North America for the week have reached the huge total of 12,875,000 bushels an amount which was never before equalled. At the same time, gossip was being circulated that 13,000,000 bushels of the strange way the current is flowing. Some of these, such as the figure of merchandise exports, pig iron output, bank clearings and railroad earnings, bring to light attainments which have been added those of unfilled steel tonnage and commodity prices.

Weekly cattle clearings $4,041,440.74.
Increase in production, in the working force and in the power of the people to purchase having established the basis for an era of unexampled prosperity. There is, moreover, the further and highly significant influence of abundant supplies of money for legitimate purposes, while the arrangements for supplementary foreign credits augur well for the maintenance of the phenomenal developments in overseas commerce.

Just how fully trade and industry is progressed is clearly reflected in the statistical figures that always tell which way the current is flowing. Most of the strength in wheat developed after the posting of figures showing that exports of wheat and flour from North America for the week have reached the huge total of 12,875,000 bushels an amount which was never before equalled. At the same time, gossip was being circulated that 13,000,000 bushels of the strange way the current is flowing. Some of these, such as the figure of merchandise exports, pig iron output, bank clearings and railroad earnings, bring to light attainments which have been added those of unfilled steel tonnage and commodity prices.

Weekly cattle clearings $4,041,440.74.
Increase in production, in the working force and in the power of the people to purchase having established the basis for an era of unexampled prosperity. There is, moreover, the further and highly significant influence of abundant supplies of money for legitimate purposes, while the arrangements for supplementary foreign credits augur well for the maintenance of the phenomenal developments in overseas commerce.

Just how fully trade and industry is progressed is clearly reflected in the statistical figures that always tell which way the current is flowing. Some of these, such as the figure of merchandise exports, pig iron output, bank clearings and railroad earnings, bring to light attainments which have been added those of unfilled steel tonnage and commodity prices.

Cotton Palace Wonderful Exposition, Says Holland

"Magnificent and incomparable. Exquisite in appearance, splendid in every arrangement and detail. It was unique, lovely, opulent in every attraction and transcendent as an attraction and social event."

That was the manner in which Col. Frank P. Holland of the Farm and Ranch and Holland's Magazine, Dallas, yesterday described the coronation and other ceremonies of the queen's ball at the Cotton Palace on Thursday night. Colonel Holland was enthusiastic over the success of the occasion and didn't hesitate to use a most choice vocabulary of descriptive in describing the premier social feature on the exposition program. Colonel Holland is stopping at the New State House.

"Unique and exceedingly beautiful, delightfully charming," continued the Colonel. "It was one of the prettiest things I ever witnessed and I don't mind telling you that in my experience I have attended many gala affairs. Waco is doing herself proud and indicating to the world the richness and excellence and accomplishing ability of Central Texas. I attended the first Texas exposition since that time and I seriously insist that the present being made is not only astonishing but positively marvelous. Waco, business men and especially the Cotton Palace management have every right to advertise the institution as the most unique exposition in the world. It already has attained Texas-wide recognition—it soon will attain recognition throughout the South and Southwest."

Colonel Holland is one of the better newspaper men South of the Mason and Dixon line. He knows everybody worth knowing throughout the country. He acted as special war correspondent for his paper in Mexico, having made the trip from Guaymas on General Funston's transport, the McClellan. At the Press Day festivities Thursday he was one of the principal speakers. Walter P. Whitman of Holland's Magazine, president of the Texas Press association, accompanied Colonel Holland to Waco. They will return to Dallas today.

Coronation Great Event Says Col. W. A. Bowen

William A. Bowen, editor and owner of the Farmers' Fireside Bulletin and editor of the Arlington Journal, was here this week with the Texas newspaper men on Press day at the Cotton Palace. Mr. Bowen says he always comes to the Cotton Palace. He is one of the two surviving members of the original Texas Press association. "Yes, I enjoy the Cotton Palace," said Col. Bowen, "everything there, for it is all great. Waco has in this unique exposition of material products of Texas the most unique exposition ever given. I say this because it not only makes a specialty of showing Texas products—both of soil, pasture and field, but of manufacture and social exposition. And this latter feature is what will make it grow and grow, both in magnitude and attendance and in usefulness. And I do not mean to leave the impression that I haven't enjoyed all of it when I say that I lost all interest in material and personal exhibits as soon as the queen and her retinue came on. To me those beautiful, cultured, gracious and sweet-looking young women of Texas—our uncrowned queens—are our greatest and best products—and chiefest hope of the future. And when the herald megaphoned his trumpetings of the entry of the royal party no mere man, nor man's material works, could get my eye, ear or mind. "Then, you had the 'Birth of a Nation.' This is the greatest piece of historical work ever placed before the American people—and it came at the psychological time. I believe that never since Thes ruled and Rocius trod the stage, has anything put on a stage had such a general, deep and lasting effect upon audiences as does this marvelous production of truth-teaching history. Truly, it marks the 'Birth of a Nation.' Not the prophetic eloquence of Daniel Webster in his peroration to his reply to Hayne, Liberty and union, one and indivisible, now and forever, but from the time this great presentation of the real facts of the most crucial period in American history, must we date the real birth of this nation. That is, in its acceptance as a new birth by all the people. And I say this as the son of a commander of the Confederate navy. And I found my opinion confirmed by talking to hundreds in Chicago last spring when I witnessed it at its first presentation—northern people, federal veterans, as well as their sons and daughters—and I talked it over with scores, because I lived among them for many years as a newspaper man. And about the best criticism I ever heard was from a red-hot old southerner, who saw it and exclaimed: 'O, it did me good to find that these Yankees laughed, and cried, and yelled, and whooped, and got as mad as I did, just the same as I did when we all saw this together.' "Every man, woman and child should see it. Your opera house should be crowded at every performance. It is marvelous. It is fact. It is truth that should be known by all. And ye shall know the truth, and the truth will make you free, were the words of the Master—and that is why it is freeing us and making us one as never before."

MANY WOODMEN COMING FOR DAY AT PALACE

PROMINENT CHOPPERS OF STATE AND NATION WILL BE PRESENT.

Local Committee Expects 10,000 Visitors—Varied Program of Entertainment Arranged.

Next Thursday, November 18, will be Woodmen of the World day at the Cotton Palace. The indications are that it will be one of the biggest days of the entire exposition. S. J. Flood, chairman of the local Woodmen committee in charge of W. O. W. day at the Cotton Palace, says the indications are that more than 10,000 Woodmen will be here from all sections of the state on that day.

He received a telegram from the state officials at Dallas yesterday saying they had made a guarantee to the Katy railroad that at least 200 members of the W. O. W. would attend the exposition from that city. The Dallas delegation will come down in a special train.

A letter has been received from Cleburne to the effect that 150 Woodmen would be in attendance from that city. Big Springs W. O. W. officials declare that 100 will be present from there. Head Banker H. Russell of Mineral Wells is coming with a strong delegation from his town. Col. M. Field of Tyler assures Mr. Flood that his entire regiment with a membership of 240 men will be at the Cotton Palace, accompanied by a large number of members. Fort Worth will make some history on that day. The largest camp in the entire order is located at Fort Worth. They are coming on a special train with two drill teams, a big brass band, and at least 200 members.

Captain Ragsdale of Waxahachie will bring his team and an additional 75 members.

Mart, Riesel, China Springs, Chalk Bluff, Crawford, Valley Mills, Spangleville, Moody, McGregor, West, Elm Mott, LeRoy, Downsview, Hillsdale and other towns in the vicinity of Waco have given assurances of their intention of attending the Cotton Palace in unusually large numbers.

A large percentage of the membership of all camps located in Central Texas have promised to be present. Camps located in distant cities will be represented.

Following are some of the prominent W. O. W. officials who will be present at the Cotton Palace: Jewel P. Lightfoot, Austin; E. D. Henry, San Antonio; Lewis Rogers, Garfield; O. S. Lattimore, Fort Worth; H. W. Weisman, Cleburne; W. A. Fraser, Omaha, Neb., supreme commander; R. H. McCall, Dallas; Dr. Martin Arnold, San Antonio; Walter Logan, Fort Worth; and Hon. Morris Sheppard, Texas.

There will be some hotly contested drilling among the various camps. Prizes aggregating $500 have been put up by the Cotton Palace management. A strong effort is being made by Woodmen in this section of the state to make the Cotton Palace rally the biggest in point of attendance that has ever been held in Texas in the history of the order.

How to Overcome Pink Boll Rot Is Lecture Subject

Methods of combating anthracnose, the disease which caused heavy losses to cotton growers this season, will be explained by Dr. Frederick H. Blodgett, plant pathologist to the experiment station at the A. & M. college, who will talk in the agricultural hall at the Cotton Palace grounds this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Dr. Blodgett came to Waco Friday morning from College Station and is with the A. & M. exhibit at the Palace grounds.

Anthracnose, also known as pink boll rot, made its appearance in Central East Texas following the August storms. Heavy losses as a result of badly stained lint were suffered by cotton growers in the storm belt.

The destruction of cotton stalks and the planting of new seed for cotton this year to crops as widely different from that staple as possible is urged by Dr. Blodgett as the best means for combating this disease. Cases showing cotton affected by anthracnose and giving directions as to the best means of combating it are featured at the A. & M. exhibit at the Cotton Palace grounds.

Dr. Blodgett also will talk to the eighty boys who will attend the campment school at the Palace grounds. Those boys who are the champion corn growers in their counties arrived yesterday and last night. Boy Scouts of the Waco and Fort Worth camps assisted F. D. Steger, general secretary of the A. & M. College Y. M. C. A., in making the champion boy corn growers at home. Tents provided by company K of the National guard are being utilized for accommodations for the corn growers. H. H. Williamson, state agent in charge of boys' corn club work, is in charge of the campment school which will continue through Monday.

Sentence Passed on Six Pleading Guilty in Federal Court

Dick Robinson, Sam Jefferson, Frank Warren and John Graffe yesterday entered pleas of guilty to violating the federal liquor laws and were fined $100 each and sentenced to sixty days in jail. J. C. Kennedy, Jack Adkinson, Walter Steen, Willie Brown, Jim Yedell and A. Grayson, now in jail on a similar charge, pleaded not guilty.

The entire batch of defendants were indicted at the present session of the federal grand jury. They were arrested Thursday at Mexia by City Marshal Richards and Deputy United States Marshal Rogers. Three of the accused are white men, the others are negroes. Major Harrison and Napoleon Hannah, charged with breaking into interstate shipments, also pleaded guilty yesterday and were sentenced to sixty days in jail.
